AMERICANS CUT JAPANESE HELD BURMA VALLEY

Merrill's Troops Occupy Shadzup and Threaten Enemy Base of Myitkyina.

By The Associated Press

Americans under 39-year-old Brig. Gen. Frank Merrill have driven through Burma's Mogaung valley to occupy Shadzup and increased the threat to Japan's important railway center of Myitkyina, headquarters announced today.

The Americans, including some veterans of the south Pacific battles, are now within 58 miles of Myitkyina, upon which a force of British commandos are also driving from the north.

Merrill's success blunts the enemy's advantage, if any, the Japanese were utilizing as a result of their three-pronged advance across the Indian border toward Imphal in the Manipur area. Allied counter-attacks there have virtually stopped the Nipponese, but heavy fighting continues.

Japs Meet Setbacks

Southeast Asia communique indicates the Japanese columns are meeting with increasingly stiff resistance and encountering setbacks.

An announcement that heavy bombers two days ago carried out their first low level bombing and strafing attack along a section of the "Burma-Siam railway" disclosed that the Japanese have built a rail link with their eastern conquests.

(The Japanese have been reported making frantic efforts to construct a rail line across Thailand (Siam) which would link South China sea ports with Burma and permit them to supply the Burma front without risking the hazards of the sea route around Singapore.)

The military situation has become so confused in the north Burma sector, where both the Japanese and the allies have offensives going at the same time in different areas an allied headquarters spokesman apologized for the vagueness of communiques by saying these are "no more obscure than the military situation itself."

2 Veterans of Pacific War Make Surprise Visits Home Same Day

Two Marion men, both from the same neighborhood and both veterans of bitter fighting in the Pacific area, made unexpected arrivals in Marion last Sunday. They came by different routes, both surprising friends and relatives they had not seen for many months.

Both have been in major offensives, one is in the Navy, the other with the Marines. Their homes are about two blocks apart.

Below are interviews with the two men given since their arrival, written by Mary Herring of The Star staff.

Jack Gamble Veteran of Many Battles

The old adage "jack of all trades and master of none," doesn't hold true as a description of Jack J. Gamble, aviation radioman first class, 23-year-old son of Mrs. Nellie Gamble of 848 Davids street. Jack, as radioman on torpedo planes, meeting all requirements, is proficient in all phases of the necessary training, qualifying as radioman, radarman, photographer, gunner, bombardier and torpedoman.

A veteran of almost every major battle in the Pacific area, he arrived home unexpectedly Sunday. Granted a 10-day leave from Quonset Point, R. I. he came home with three combat stars on his wings, five ribbons pinned to his Navy tunic and a presidential citation in his pocket. Two more ribbons could be pinned over his pocket but the young man laughingly said "I think that would be too many."

When he rapped at the door, his mother walked to answer it, thinking it a neighbor boy. When her son walked in and towered over her, she was speechless. He explained then that the leave had been granted quite suddenly and he had "hitched" a ride with an official from the base who was flying to Columbus. "I had to change my uniform, pack my bag and run about a quarter mile all in 15 minutes to make the plane, but I made it."

How he ever curled his long legs up when he was a rear gunner on dive bombers while stationed in the Pacific area is a minor miracle.

After being returned to the states last year and granted an eight-month shore duty, which according to the young man, "didn't pan out," he was transferred to the west coast where he was engaged in anti-submarine work and switched from dive bombers to torpedo planes.

In Historic Engagement

When he was home on a 30-day leave last year, it was revealed that he had been stationed on the carrier "The Hornet," sunk the previous November. Later he was connected with the historic raid on Tokyo conducted by Maj. Gen. Jimmie Doolittle. Gamble and another Marion man, Carroll Williams, were identified as having a part in the preliminary arrangements to that surprise raid.

He has been awarded the Air Medal, personally given a citation from Admiral W. F. Halsey, which is now framed and hanging on the wall of his home. The young man thinks more of it because he had met and talked with Halsey and liked him quite well. Later a citation came from Navy Secretary Frank Knox.

The presidential citation was given to him at Quonset Point last month. It is a unit citation, Jack explained, and was given for the crew of his ship "For outstanding performance and distinguished achievement during repeated action against enemy Jap forces in the Pacific War area on Dec. 7, 1941 to Nov. 15, 1942.

Happy Reunion After Two Years

"A flesh and blood answer to the prayers of Mrs. W. C. Bowman of 642 Woodrow avenue for the safety of her son was given when she returned home from church services last Sunday night to find him—23-year-old Pfc. Richard Bowman of the Marines—there to greet her.

Without telling his mother that he was coming, he slipped home after spending almost two years in combat with a special weapons battalion. He was in the Guadalcanal battles and also in the offensive at Tarawa, landing in the fourth wave of Marines.

A partial family reunion was held Sunday. Mrs. Bowman said, because in addition to the unexpected visit of Richard, a brother, Lloyd, was visiting from Detroit, the first time he had been home in more than a year.

Younger Brother at Home

Pfc. Bowman arrived about 7:30, shortly after his mother and brother had left for evening church service. A 12-year-old brother, Billy, was the only member of the family present when he walked in.

Both could hardly believe the meeting real, with Dick saying, "Pinch me, Billy, I can't believe I'm really home."

He enlisted Aug. 13, 1942 at Baton Rouge, La., and took his basic training at San Diego, Calif. He was ordered overseas the following November before he was granted a furlough. He has been at Hawaii, and after the Tarawa battle was sent to New Zealand.

It was there that he wrote of receiving his Christmas box in the second week of December. The package came just after they had returned from the Tarawa engagement and the things from home, especially a fruit cake that came in "awfully handy because my buddy and I messed around too long and missed chow," arrived at a timely moment.

Souvenirs Sidetracked

Mrs. Bowman said they had received the last letter early in February and at that time he gave a different address. He had planned, she said, to bring some Jap souvenirs but when they were ready to ship for home the limited space resulted in all baggage being shipped to New River, N. C. where he is to report after his furlough is ended. From there he will be reassigned.

SEARCH PUSHED IN BUCYRUS SLAYING

Grand Jury To Consider Possible Action Monday.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, March 25—Police here were continuing their search for John A. Wilson, 63, wanted in connection with the murder of his wife, Mrs. Daisy Teeters Wilson, found bludgeoned to death in their home at 333 Walnut street, late Thursday afternoon. The body of the slain woman was shipped to Butler yesterday where funeral arrangements are being completed today.

At police headquarters today evidence is being prepared for presentation to the Crawford County grand jury when it convenes Monday, with a view of getting an indictment against Wilson. There were no new developments in the case Chief of Police W. L. Stuckert said today.

Mrs. Wilson's body was found in a locked room of her home by her son Raymond Teeters, who arrived last Saturday to visit his mother. Told by his step-father that she was visiting in Mansfield, he did not become alarmed until the police visited the home Thursday afternoon upon the request of a son, Dory Teeters of Butler, who said he had received a disturbing letter. Contents of the letter were not disclosed by police. The woman had been dead about a week, Coroner O. R. Kingsley said.

On the same day the woman's body was discovered by her son, a picture of another son, Pfc. Russell L. Wilson, together with a group of other Ohio soldiers in England lined up to wash their mess kits, appeared in a state newspaper.

Three Die Under Weight of Ashes from Vesuvius

By The Associated Press

NAPLES, March 25 — A roof collapsing from the weight of ashes from Vesuvius, killed three persons in the village of Terzigno on the volcano's eastern slope last night.

The fatalities brought to five deaths reported in the greatest eruption on the volcano since 1872. Mt. Vesuvius continued to spit volcanic dust into the sky today, but the threat of further destruction to nearby villages seemed

GIVE UP HOPE FOR 14 CAUGHT BY MINE BLAST

Victims Were Fire Fighters Who Entered Pit To Battle Blaze.

By The Associated Press

SHINNSTON, W. Va., March 25—Hope was abandoned today for 14 men known to be trapped in the Katherine No. 4 coal mine where a raging fire 3,000 feet underground halted efforts to reach the scene.

A fifteenth man was unaccounted for but officials were uncertain whether he was a member of the crew which entered the mine last night in an attempt to quench the fire.

Fan System Wrecked.

The blast wrecked the mine ventilating system and rescue crews stood by helplessly until repairs could be made. One estimate was it would be late today or tonight before the fans would be working.

Indications were that the fire was making unchecked headway and that crews would find an inferno when they could get in.

The Katherine Coal company, which opened its fourth operation in the Clarksburg field less than six months ago, issued a casualty list of 14 known to have been inside when the blast occurred.

State Mines Chief Jesse Redyard, before leaving Charleston for the scene, said he was informed the fire started from a machine cable and quickly ignited the wall of coal.

Windows Shattered

Windows in homes in Shinnston, about two miles away, were shattered.

L. S. McKee, district mine inspector, said he believed the blast was caused by an explosion of mine gas that had collected near the bottom of the bituminous shaft.

The mine is located in Harrison county in north central West Virginia.

SHOVEL CO. PROFIT $473,851 LAST YEAR

$136,527 Below Preceding Year, Annual Report Shows.

Net profit of $473,851 is listed for 1943 in the annual report of the Marion Steam Shovel Co., distributed today to stockholders.

This is a decline from the comparable figure of $610,378 for 1942, and Charles U. Bay, chairman of the board of directors, commented in the report that "this decline in net profit is due principally to lowered profits on war contracts and to increased taxes."

He added that "net profits for the year 1943 are due almost entirely to orders in connection with the war effort and are subject to renegotiation."

As of Dec. 31, last year, accumulated and unpaid preferred dividends amounted to $92.75 a share or $2,452,217.25, Mr. Bay reported.

In the condensed profit and loss statement that is a part of the report, the company lists the deductions and allowances that were made in arriving at the net profit figure of $473,851.21 for last year. Starting with a gross profit from operations, before depreciation and amortization of emergency facilities, amounting to $3,048,308.10, the report lists the following deductions from that figure; depreciation charged to manufacturing operations and amortization of emergency facilities, $157,318. 21; selling, general and administrative, $649,579.67 (this item includes $40,044.90 as provision for obsolescence of product and $7,829.32 for depreciation); interest on funded debt, $72,248.51; provision for renegotiation, $40,000; provision for federal taxes, $1,687,328.48.

Next Friday Last Day for Old Auto Tags

Friday, March 31, at midnight, will be the last date Ohio motorists may use last year's auto tags. Approximately 4,500 new tags have been sold since the first of the month. This is running approximately 300 ahead of the sale at the same time last year but James E. Messenger, deputy registrar, urges motorists to avoid any last day rush by getting their licenses now. Only five more days remain to buy new plates.

The auto license department will be open two nights next week for the convenience of persons unable to get in during the day. The dates for these evening hours will be announced early in the week.

Allies Will Strike When Nazi Guard Is Broken Down

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 25—Europe will be invaded from the west when Hitler's war machine has been "sufficiently reduced" to enable the allies to "close for the kill," Capt. Harold H. Balfour, parliamentary undersecretary of state for air, declared in an address at Ramsgate today.

Likening the air assault on Germany to the task of a picador in a bullfight preparing for the matador's kill, Balfour said:

"We are now in the third phase of the war—the phase of attrition, the wearing down of the war power, actual and potential, of the enemy until the point is reached when our combined allied air strength and the combined strength of our land forces will enable us to close for the kill, which will be the fourth and final phase. * * *

"We know the hour is approaching."

CHURCHILL TO STEEL ALLIES FOR LOSSES

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 25 — Prime Minister Churchill's British-American hookup broadcast Sunday is expected here to steel the two nations for the sacrifices of the forthcoming invasion march on Berlin—more of the blood and sweat he so grimly predicted nearly four years ago, but this time bright with the confidence of victory.

The dramatic panorama of the past fateful week for Germany affords a background for this first home broadcast by the premier since a year ago, providing material for a whole new picture of the strengthened allied position as the hour of climax nears.

Churchill probably will take full advantage of developments in the Balkans to emphasize the collapse of the last Nazi pretense of a benevolent new order and unified European defense. Hungary, Bulgaria and Rumania doubtlessly are awaiting Churchill's words for clues of their future fate.

Others will be listening as tensely—Finland for a hint of the next move after her rejection of the Soviet armistice terms, and neutral Eire for a suggestion of the extent of her isolation from the rest of the world.

There has been some editorial speculation in London that Churchill may reiterate that the Atlantic charter still embodies the underlying allied war purposes.

But a call for a final draining effort for victory is expected to be the keynote. All major U. S. networks will carry the address at 3 p. m.

5 SENTENCED TO PRISON AS DETROIT SPIES

Miss Grace Buchanan-Dineen and Four Others Draw Long Terms.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, March 25 — Miss Grace Buchanan-Dineen, sometimes called a "countess" and four other Detroiters who pleaded guilty to conspiracy to violate the wartime espionage act were sentenced to varying prison terms in federal court today.

Miss Buchanan-Dineen, called leader of the group by the federal bureau of investigation and a government witness before the grand jury, was sentenced to 12 years.

Stiffest sentence went to Mrs. Theresa Behrens, German-American secretary of the International Center of the Detroit Y.W.C.A. She was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment. She fainted in the courtroom.

Others sentenced were: Mrs. Emma Elise Leonhardt, five years; her husband, Carl John W. Leonhardt, 10 years, and Walter Joseph Abt, 10 years.

Sentencing of Mrs. Marianne Von Molthe, wife of a suspended German language instructor at Wayne university (Detroit) was deferred. The United States district attorney's office said that she had been making additional statements and that investigation of the information had not been completed.

Leonhardt was one of the founders of a branch of the Nazi party here and Abt was a research engineer and tool designer for Detroit war plants. Both were naturalized citizens.

With two other men and four women they were accused of conspiring to obtain information concerning the war effort in the Detroit industrial area and transmit it to Nazi Germany.

Dr. Fred William Thomas, a Detroit obstetrician and only one of the group of eight to stand trial, was convicted and sentenced a fortnight ago to 16 years imprisonment.

Bertrand Stuart Hoffman, a merchant seaman, was declared mentally incompetent as he was about to go to trial and charges against him were dismissed. Subsequently a probate court jury found him sane.

Besides the eight arrested here, 16 others were named in indictments as co-conspirators but not defendants. Most of them, the federal bureau of investigation said, maintained addresses in Switzerland, Sweden, Portugal and Hungary to receive information for transmission to Germany. Others were axis agents said by the FBI to have tutored the Detroit group in spy work.

POSTAL RATES ADVANCE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 25 — Postal rates go up at midnight tonight. A penny here and a few cents there will bring in an estimated $96,000,000 more revenue annually. The estimate is based on the premise there will be no decrease in volume as a result of the higher rates.

SCHORR CALLS MEETING

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 25 — Ed D. Schorr, chairman of the Republican state central and executive committee, announced today he had called a committee meeting to be held at the Seneca hotel here Thursday. Schorr said the meeting would be of a routine nature.

Men Under 26 Face Immediate Call for Draft Examination

WASHINGTON, March 25—The mass movement of men under 26 from jobs to battle lines was speeded today as selective service began calling them up for immediate physical examinations and postponed consideration of older men in order to meet the army's demand for vigorous young fighters.

While the drastic new draft regulations were being put into operation, a dozen government agencies hurriedly gathered data on manpower needs of vital industries so that new centralized machinery for recommending deferments of men under 26 can start rolling as soon as possible.

Those two developments—swifter drafting of younger men for combat and a single inter-agency committee to help choose the relatively few who will not be taken—put some order in the over-all situation after a week of confusion.

365,000 Men Affected

To youths 18 through 25 holding non-agricultural job deferments—there were 365,000 at last count—the new draft regulations mean:

1. They will be called for preinduction physicals right away. This may be done without taking them out of 2-A or 2-B.

2. Their classifications will be reconsidered faster than before because Hershey ordered a halt to reconsideration of men 26 and over, until each local board has gone through its list of younger men. This policy applies to all men with occupational deferments, including farm, and also to those still in 2-A by reason of dependency.

3. The expiration dates of their deferments no longer have any meaning. If a local board decides Joe Doakes, who is in 2-A, ought to be in 1-A, he goes in 1-A at once.

4. If they are found unfit for military service or fit for limited service only, their draft board can give them occupational deferments instead of putting them in 4-F or 1-L.

To men in the 26-37 age group who are in 3-A or hold job deferments, the new regulations mean a delay in reconsideration of their cases.

The armed forces are primarily interested in young men just now.

REDS STRIKE HEAVY BLOW

Soviets Exploit Breakthrough To Batter Germans Back to Carpathians.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, March 25—Striking in its white-hot hour of victory, the Red army was reported today to be exploiting its broad Tarnopol breakthrough in the southeastern corner of old Poland into a full-scale smash to fling the Germans back past Czernowitz to the Carpathian barrier.

Pravda said the mighty thrust between Tranopol and Proskurov was gaining momentum.

While Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's Tarnopol drive cut the Tarnopol - Lwow railway and knifed closer to the Lwow-Czernowitz trunk line, capture of Byeltsi, traffic control point for northern Moldavia, appeared to be a matter of hours, front dispatches said. Its fall would give the Russians virtual control of a 200-mile long stretch of the eastern bank of the Dniester river.

Zaleschiki, 26 miles north of Czernowitz, Rumanian rail junction controlling lines into the Balkan states, was captured in a four-day 62-mile thrust below Tarnopol. The advance carried the Russians to within 60 miles of the old Czechoslovakian border and five miles from the former Rumanian province of Bucovina.

Moscow said 20,000 Germans were killed and 3,500 captured in

POST-WAR ECONOMIC MEETING SET HERE

District Industrial Group To Hold Session Tuesday.

Industrial and business concerns in Marion and nearby counties will take the first step toward organizing their part of a comprehensive post-war program for private business when the Committee for Economic Development holds a district meeting Tuesday afternoon in Hotel Harding.

In Marion, Harold J. Grigsby, secretary of the Marion-Reserve Power Co., has been named CED chairman. It is expected others will be named for counties nearby.

Claris Adams of Columbus, president of the Ohio State Life Insurance Co., chairman of a 26-county area that includes Marion, will be in charge of Tuesday's meeting, set for 4 p. m.

The CED program was launched by a group of business and industrial executives as a national movement to set up post-war activities that will help meet the problems arising when 10,000,000 persons in the armed forces and other millions now in war industry want peacetime jobs. Its leaders have emphasized that private business must take the initiative of providing jobs to avert the twin evils of mass unemployment or mass government employment. The CED is a private, non-political, non-profit corporation set up to do that job. Its leaders declare that the goals will be accomplished only if each community sets up its own program, company by company, and it is for this purpose that the series of meetings included in Marion's session Tuesday is being held. The total of effort in the hundreds of cities and towns can be of decisive importance in helping bring about a nationwide level of employment and production that will mean prosperity and progress, Mr. Adams said in outlining plans for his visit here.

73 SHOT DOWN IN BITTEREST NIGHT BATTLE

Germans Send Up Large Force of Fighters To Meet Armada.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 25—The major part of 1,000 RAF bombers fought through one of the bitterest night sky battles of the war last night and dumped 2,000 tons of bombs on Berlin in the final drive for complete obliteration of the German capital.

Seventy-three British bombers were shot down over Berlin and other targets by large forces of German fighters which the Berlin radio said started attacking the mighty RAF armada as it crossed Helgoland, in the North sea, and fought it all the way to the capital.

Nazis Claim 102

Germany claimed 102 bombers were shot down in the long running fight which culminated in an hour-long battle over the capital as formation after formation roared over, starting new fires in that hub of Nazidom in the 16th major RAF raid since Nov. 18.

The British air ministry's report said Kiel also had been hit by the night raiders "along with other objectives in western Germany."

About 100 German bombers broke through London's aerial barrage to blast at the British capital's business properties, dwellings and churches with tons of incendiaries in the longest raid in 12 months. Eleven were shot down.

A British announcement described Berlin as the "main objective" of night operations "in strength" over Germany. The German radio said other British bombers raided Leipzig and Weimar.

The attacks followed daylight blows by U. S. heavy bombers against Frankfurt and Schweinfurt and the French airfields of Nancy and St. Dizier in the 19th Eighth air force mission in March.

Berlin was attacked by daylight Wednesday by an American armada of up to 750 Fortresses and Liberators, escorted by around 1,000 fighters. Hundreds of fires were left burning.

1,000 Planes in Raid

About 800 bombers and 300 fighters, including RAF Mustangs, took part in yesterday's daylight raids and encountered little opposition. The raids cost three bombers and five fighters. The fighters destroyed two Nazi aircraft on the ground and a third as it was taking off.

The Germans struck back at London last night with the longest raid in 12 months, burning and blasting churches, houses and business properties with tons of incendiaries. Five of the attacking force which broke through the capital's thunderous and virtually continuous barrage early today were brought down.

There were many casualties. The raid apparently centered on suburban districts. Towns in the home counties also were hit.

It was disclosed last night London's famed Royal Albert hall was damaged when a high explosive bomb fell nearby during a recent night raid.

A dispatch from a Flying Fortress base said escorting fighters now are doing most of the battling over Germany.

Last night's loss was the RAF's highest in its 18 major assaults on the No. 1 German target but fell six short of the record 79 lost in the RAF's Jan. 19 blow at Leipzig.

In the revived German opposition, after the beating Hitler's air forces have taken in recent American daylight blows, was seen as indication the Germans are undertaking a last-ditch stand for the preservation of what remains of their capital.

Christians and the World

A Sermonette

By REV. R. W. FAULKNER

Pastor of Calvary Evangelical Church.

Text from Matthew 5:13

MANY opinions are being expressed over some local issues in our city that call us to seek the guiding principles as taught and demonstrated by our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. What should be the Christians attitude toward the world?

Should it be that of a fleeing pilgrim? Is it our sole purpose to save our own soul while "the rest of the world goes by"? A friend recently said, referring to Christians:

"You folks are not unselfish, rather you have adopted a higher selfishness. You keep Christ for yourself and never talk to others about Him. You seem to be more anxious about your own soul than you are about saving others. You are willing to take the easy way of paying others to tell the Gospel story but you never personally share your Christian experience with others."

Is this criticism justified? What have you done and what are you doing for your Master? Jesus used a figure of speech intelligently and accurately when he said, "Ye are the salt of the earth." Now salt is of no value as long as it stays in the bowels of the earth, or in a bag or box. It must come in contact with the thing that needs flavoring. It makes sweet only as it gives itself up. We fail to fulfill our mission as Christians when we fail to share Christ with others. Jesus rebuked those who were making a stage play of religion because they "shut the Kingdom of God in men's faces." Christ for the world we sing. Then, let us take Him to the World.

OTHER Chirstians are accused of taking an attitude of hostility toward the world. These well meaning folks contend that it is the business of a Christian to fight. "We are soldiers of the cross," they say, and the military figure looms very large before their eyes. "Evil" they say, "is present in the world and it is our purpose to drive it out." Thus, much time is spent in tongue battle, ranting against the evil of our day and creating hate, prejudice and ill-will. God teaches that the most successful way to deal with evil is to overcome it with good. Jesus not only taught but demonstrated that sacrificial-love makes one "more than a conqueror." The best way to do away with your enemy is to make him your friend. A conqueror may kill his enemy, but the good, that is more than a conqueror, converts the evil into good, and wins the adherence of the one-time evil man, so that where there once stood one good man and one evil, there now stands not one good man alone, the evil man being dead, but there stand two good men. "Ye are the salt of the earth." Salt is a preservative that checks deterioration. Christians are to check the deterioration of human life and preserve it for usefulness in the Kingdom of God. "Love never fails."

BY THEIR actions, others have demonstrated that they believe the proper Christian attitude toward the world is that of partial participation just as long as you don't go too far. With one hand in God's and the other in the devil's they would seek to fulfill their responsibility to God and to society. Life itself proves that this attitude does not work. The conflict is too great and soon we either love one and hate the other or we cling to one and leave the other. "You cannot worship both God and Mammon." "Ye are the salt of the earth," not a sponge absorbing both the good and evil of your generation. We do not need the world to flavor our Christianity. You don't flavor your salt with a carrot or your salt with a potato. It's the other way around. Salt is an active agent and penetrates that which it is to flavor. Christians are to penetrate the world with the purity of a Christ-like life. When we compromise with the world we fail God. But we can go into the world to flavor the world and that is our commission. When we share in the sin of the word we fall God. "If salt become insipid, what can make it salt again? After that it is fit for nothing." The world is too much with us already. Let's come clean for God. Let God work through you in redeeming the world. "For the son of man came not to be ministered unto but to minister, and give his life a ransom for many." (Mk. 10:45).

Inland seas once lay where the two greatest mountain ranges of the United States now are—the Rockies and the Appalachians.

Auto Bumps Truck into Train Near Kenton; Driver Hurt

Burl L. Weidner of Baltimore, O., suffered a broken jaw and lacerations when a truck which he was driving figured in an accident on Route 31 south of Kenton Friday night. According to state highway patrolmen who investigated the accident, Weidner was headed north and stopped for a freight train at a New York Central crossing when a car operated by John J. Dzurnak of Cleveland ran into the rear of the truck, pushing it into the side of the train.

Weidner was taken to McKitrick hospital in Kenton. The truck, which was owned by Howard Howes of Pataskala, O., was demolished and considerable damage resulted to the Dzurnak vehicle.

JOAN BERRY'S LOVE LETTER READ TO JURY

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, March 25—A poignant and heart-throbbing love letter Joan Berry wrote to Charlie Chaplin was in the court record of his Mann act trial today, but efforts by the movie comedian's counsel to probe into her romance with another man have been blocked by Judge J. F. T. O'Connor.

Just what will be the method of approach by the defense when the trial is resumed next Tuesday was not disclosed by Jerry Giesler, Chaplin's lawyer.

"The court's ruling greatly limits our proposed defense," Giesler told newsmen. "It simply means that he cannot now go into certain phases of Miss Berry's past."

The ruling followed an attempt by Giesler to have red-haired Joan state whether she told a man named Hans Reusch (otherwise unidentified) she was broke but could get money from a man in Oklahoma because she had made a trip to Mexico with him "and there is a law against that in the United States; he can't do that."

Joan apparently won't have to answer questions about associations with any men other than Chaplin, under Judge O'Connor's decree. She completed her direct and cross-examination testimony late yesterday, but U. S. Attorney Charles H. Carr said he might recall her later.

Joan's startled doe appearance in the witness chair quickly changed to one of placid resignation, and tears welled into her eyes and mascara streaked down her freckled face when Giesler began reading a letter she wrote to Chaplin Nov. 18, 1942, from Tulsa, Okla.

She hid her face from the gaze of the jury of seven women and five men as Giesler read: "Thank you, Charles, for letting me know you—you, the greatest genius and artist living. You never really knew of the countless sleepless nights and millions of unsent letters. You'd laugh at them, but they were pretty real to me. I know you're not interested in my plans, but I'd like to tell you, anyway. I'm going back to New York to get married (there really is a boy who wants to marry me").

Defense Acts To Block Lonergan Confession

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 25—One of the most vital parts of the state's first degree murder case against Wayne Lonergan balanced undecisively today on the outcome of a stubborn defense fight to keep his unsigned confession from becoming a part of his trial record.

Edward V. Broderick, chief defense attorney, when the prosecution sought to introduce the statement yesterday, charged it was obtained under duress and with promises of leniency.

The portly defense chief still was battling vigorously as the trial recessed for the week-end.

The prosecution already has conceded that only the 26-year-old defendant and his heiress wife, Patricia, were in the master bedroom of their fashionable apartment when she was bludgeoned and strangled last Oct. 24 and that the state has only Lonergan's word as to what happened.

Waldo School To Stage Paper Drive

A waste paper drive will be conducted next week by pupils of Waldo school under sponsorship of the student council, Clyde Forry, superintendent, announced today. Paper will be weighed each day of drive. No goal has been set for the end of the drive, Mr. Forry said. Residents of the Waldo rural community have been asked to take their waste paper contributions with them when they go to Waldo within the next week.

Individual prizes will be awarded to the three pupils bringing in largest amounts of paper during the drive. Five dollars will be awarded as first prize, $2.50 as second and $1 as third. Anyone taking paper to the school may credit it to the pupil of their choice. Total amounts of paper brought in by each home room will determine the division of money earned in the drive. Half of the money brought in by the room will be returned to it and half will be retained by the student council.

Accidents in Great Britain killed 17 per cent fewer workers but injured 16 per cent more in 1942 than the previous year.

Altrusa Club To Hear Cleo Dawson at Tuesday Dinner

A HIGHLIGHT of the 1943-41 season for members of the Altrusa club will be the visit of Cleo Dawson, who will be the guest speaker for the monthly dinner meeting Tuesday evening at 6:45 o'clock at Hotel Harding. Invited to join the Altrusans as guests for the dinner and program are members of the Marion Association of University Women. Miss Dawson also will be the speaker for the weekly meeting of the Rotary club at noon at the hotel.

Patron tickets for the University Women's program season will be honored for the talk to be given by Miss Dawson following the dinner, and the program hour will be open to interested persons for a small admission fee. Miss Ruth Turner is program chairman for the Altrusa club.

Miss Dawson will talk on "What's Going on on Broadway" at the Altrusa-University club meeting and her subject for the Rotary club luncheon will be "Mexico."

Miss Dawson is no stranger to Marion audiences as she has been a guest speaker on Altrusa club programs on several occasions. Since her last visit to Marion at the time of the Fourth District conference here in October 1941, she has attained literary honors through her novel, "She Came to the Valley." The story is based on her mother's life in the Texas tip of the nation where the Rio Grande flows into the Gulf. She spoke Spanish before she did English and early began to specialize in languages and literature. Added to her travel and study in South America and Mexico is her academic training at the University of Mexico, Southern Methodist university, University of Kentucky and the Baylor College School of Expression.

Her work as a reviewer of books and plays has brought her before scores of audiences throughout the country. Of late she has recreated such plays as William Saroyan's "The Time of Your Life," Robert Sherwood's "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" and Maxwell Anderson's "Journey to Jerusalem."

Personal Mention

Mrs. Joseph Dougherty and son Watson of Port-au-Prince, Haiti, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin B. Spohn of 331 Summit street. Mr. and Mrs. Dougherty were residents of Marion in 1941 when the former was engaged in soil conservation. He expects to return to the states in July or August.

It is estimated that 70 per cent of all war workers in the Eastern states depend on automobiles for transportation to and from work.

Next White House Hostess?

This is one of a series of articles on the women who might possibly become the next First Lady.

By Central Press

Nina Palmquist Warren, wife of Gov. Earl Warren of California, contends she is as uninteresting to write about as her husband is interesting.

"You're not going to write anything about me, are you?" she queried as if such a procedure were incredible.

But Mrs. Warren is interesting. She is the mother of six children, five of them living in the sprawling governor's mansion at Sacramento. The children take all of Mrs. Warren's time and interest.

What little time she has left she shares with Governor Warren, with a minimum of club activities and social life.

As an example of how Mrs. Warren is wrapped up in her family affairs, her intimate friends tell of the time before Mrs. Warren became California's first lady and a club woman called the Warren household to invite Mrs. Warren to a social function.

Virginia, now, 15, answered the telephone and took the invitation.

"Oh, Mommy couldn't possibly come," Virginia replied. "She's too busy with us children!"

When one talks to Mrs. Warren, her conversation shifts either to the children, the governor, or cooking. Friends rave over her angels food and chocolate cakes, and on birthdays of her close friends, she will send them one of her layer cakes.

Mrs. Warren is proud of the oldest—Jimmie—who is now a sergeant in the United States Army stationed currently at the Presidio in San Francisco. He recently married a Sacramento girl and they make their home at the former Warren home in Oakland, Cal.

Home and children come first with Mrs. Warren. Although she now has a cook—and a housekeeper when she can keep one—she sees to it the children are fed, washed and clothed properly, are off to school in the mornings and accounted for by supper time.

Mrs. Warren was born and raised in Oakland, where her husband later arose to become deputy city attorney, district attorney of the county, attorney general of California and finally governor. She met the governor—then district attorney of Alameda county—at a swimming party in Oakland.

"It was a breakfast party," she recalled. "I was introduced to Earl and we just seemed to go on from there."

At the time of their romance and marriage 20 years ago, Mrs. Warren was office manager of an exclusive dress shop in Oakland.

Since moving to the governor's mansion, Mrs. Warren has been made honorary member of the Girl Scouts Council, but her club activities have been confined to "command appearances" at various functions.

Friends say she is a cheerful, gracious hostess or companion on shopping tours and always chats with saleswomen and, what is more, has a marvelous memory for names, faces and associations.

FIRST OPA CHECK ON STORES FINISHED

23 Minor Errors Listed in Survey of 128 Businesses.

A check of the 128 Marion county groceries and meat markets was completed yesterday, Arthur Zachman, chairman of the Marion price panel announced today, and minor violations were found in only 23 stores.

Price panel assistants and members of the Marion County War Price and Rationing board, headed by J. C. Holliday, made the survey after the check was ordered by the government.

The assistants were instructed to check the prices of the following items: beef rib roast, round steak, dressed chickens, pork chops, butter, canned milk, toilet soap, peanut butter, shortening and canned corn and peas. They were also ordered to report if lists of ceiling prices, classification posters and prices of beef, pork, soaps and the community price lists were posted in a prominent place in each store. Tags naming the price and grade of meats displayed in the cases were also required.

Of the 23 stores, mostly smaller dealers, 33 price violations were found and 20 stores failed to mark their meats with price and grade tags or failed to have their ceiling lists posted properly. A total of 95 errors were listed for Marion county. Mr. Zachman commended the dealers and voiced the belief that the county will be found superior to most districts. He said the excellent record was due largely to the steady work of the local War Price and Rationing board.

All dealers will receive notifications this week of their violation and starting April 9, a recheck will be made of the 23 who were in error to see if they have complied with the regulations.

Victory Gardens for 1944 Expected To Show Decline

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., March 25—Public interest in war gardens must be aroused to a greater extent this spring if the 1944 goal set by the national garden advisory committee—20,000,000 gardens—is to be attained.

A nationwide survey by the Institute shows that, as of the middle of March, the total number of victory gardens planned for this year by American families is an estimated 19,600,000 or more than 2,000,000 short of the goal. Last year an estimated total of 20,600,000 gardens were planted.

The Institute's survey is the fourth annual study of the garden situation and covers a true cross-section of the nation is communities of all sizes. Each person was asked whether he planned to have a victory garden for home consumption this year, and whether he had one last year.

The results are shown below, with comparative figures for previous years:

1941—14,500,000 had gardens
1942—16,500,000 had gardens
1943—20,600,000 had gardens
1944—19,600,000 plan gardens (as of March)

Although there is a reduction in number of gardens planned, victory garden authorities can take comfort in the fact that approximately one family in every four who plans a garden says it is going to be larger than last year, whereas only one in thirteen intends to put in a smaller garden.

The Stars Say—

For Sunday, March 26

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds augury of the sudden and wholly unforseen precipitation of events, that may have far-reaching effects on the future, its destiny and fortunes. This occurrence should be handled with cleverness, originality and ingenuity and should be decisively exploited but without argument, impulsiveness, or other conduct likely to incite antagonism from those in authority or influence. Change, travel, romance are forecast, but be prudent.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for an exciting and unpredictable turn of affairs, which may be manipulated with splendid promise of progress, adventure and future gratification. Energy, ingenuity, exceptional skill or originality may secure this surprising opportunity, but emotionalism, impetuousity, or discussion may challenge higher-ups to antagonism. In affectional matters there is also need for prudence and discretion.

A child born on this day may have exceptional gifts or creative talents in inventice, scientific, literary or other lines promising adventure and romance.

For Monday, March 27

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for an exceptional opportunity to settle important affairs, of scope and daring adventure, in which public groups or community interests may be involved. The vision, intuition and intellectual processes are under high stimuli for achieving advanced and lucrative objectives. Ingenious ways and means may be expressed, but a tendency to squander forces, financial, or emotional, with unguarded talk, should be suppressed. Beware of imrudent intrigues in intimate affairs, social, affectional, domestic.

Those whose birthday it is may look for some unusual opening for achieving expansive objectives or ambitions of exceptional scope and desirability, in business, career, finances or, largely, in the affectional relations. With the keen mental abilities may stimulate worthy efforts and aims, emotional or extravagant indulgences carried to excess may prove frustrating and regrettable. Be wise.

A child born on this day will have exceptional talents, versatility and creative ability, perhaps in art, literature, music, invention. A proclivity to emotional intrigues or personal extravagance may be its undoing.

WOULD RATION FIRES

By The Associated Press

MT. MORRIS, Pa.—Fire Chief Fred J. Lemley has appealed to citizens to take extraordinary precautions to prevent brush fires. The manpower shortage and gasoline rationing, he said, make it difficult to get enough volunteer firemen to the firehouse to comply with a state law requiring at least five firemen aboard the truck before it rolls.

REPAIR

Keep Your Home In Good Condition For HOME DEFENSE

Building Quiz

Q. How can you stop condensation on foundation walls, and still paint them? What kind of paint could be used?

A. Use a cement base paint that contains a waterproofing compound. Ask for it at a mason material yard. This paint is made in colors as well as white, and comes in powder form to be mixed with water. You probably need more ventilation in your cellar when the weather is dry and clear to carry off the damp air. Calcium chloride, used in the way I have frequently described in this column, will also help to dry up the moisture out of the cellar air.

• • •

Q. I have some silver powder which I would like to use on picture frames. What should I mix with it?

A. Clear brushing lacquer or a quick-drying synthetic resin varnish can be used. Artists' supply stores may have these materials in small quantities.

Q. The dryer basket in my spinner washing machine is stuck tight. How can I lift it out?

A. To prevent damage to the machine call in a service man who repairs and services your particular kind of machine. If you do attempt to remove the basket by force, permanent damage may occur.

REMOVING OIL SPOTS

If the blotting paper and warm iron treatment won't take out oil spots on wallpaper, try making a paste of a non-inflammable spot remover and an absorbent powder such as powdered whiting or fuller's earth. Spread thickly over the spots and allow to remain until dry. Remove with a soft brush and repeat if necessary.

FOR COPPER AND BRASS

To clean copper and brass, rub with a cut piece of lemon and salt. Wash carefully with warm water and polish with a dry cloth.

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. SIES
O. S. U. Extension Floriculturist

Q. I have a number of elm trees growing along the edge of my garden, causing a lot of shade and would be pleased to know the proper procedure to kill these trees. I peeled a ring around them last year but did not kill them; the sap was already up then. W. E. M., Bridgeport, Ohio.

A. If you are interested in destroying the elm trees so that they will not interfere with this season's growth in the garden, my suggestion would be that you attach a very heavy rope or cable pretty well up into the tree, hitch it to the bumper of your auto and while putting pressure in the top of the tree with the cable, cut the roots. If you are not in such a hurry would suggest that you girdle each tree very thoroughly, by not only cutting off strips of bark several inches wide clear around the trunk, but to make sure that you are killing all the actively growing cambium layer, that you cut into the wood itself to about a depth of a half inch or one inch. Normally trees so girdled in the spring will have depleted the reserve food supply in the roots and since no manufactured food is going back to the roots from the leaves, the roots will die of starvation and the tree will be dead. Once in awhile you will find a tree that will feel you and live despite girdling.

Gardening for the Duration

INDICATION in a Gallup poll survey that home gardening this summer may slump from last year's record are not conclusive, but they suggest the need for second thought on the part of potential gardeners who are wavering in their decision.

Gardening by persons with the land and time is not optional; it is clearly a detail of their wartime duty. The arguments in its favor are unassailable, as any gardener will be glad to demonstrate—and they are only partly concerned with the need for maximum food production.

Probably the most compelling reason for home gardening under present circumstances is the selfish one of family economy. For the expenditure of a few dollars for a small garden and enough effort to plant it and keep it in shape, any family can expect a substantial return in food budget savings.

This is an aspect of gardening that has been neglected, especially in discussions of living costs during the war. While it can have no weight with those who merely argue that costs are rising and nothing can be done about it, the fact is that last summer and again this summer millions of families in the United States will do something about it with a spade, a few packets of seed and a hoe.

The Fight for Truth

INCORPORATION of the Raymond Clapper Memorial Award association, to promote the ideals of the great American newspaperman who was killed recently in an airplane accident in the Pacific, is a forward step in the fourth estate's fight for truth.

Raymond Clapper's high ideals in his practice of journalism will be upheld and made more attractive, it is believed, by awarding a medal each year to the Washington reporter whose work most closely approximates those ideals. The association will be controlled wholly by working newspapermen; its funds are being raised by contributions from newspapermen, newspapers and anyone else who, realizing the vital importance of good journalistic practice, wants to participate in this means of advancement.

The ultimate guarantee of a free press is the people's confidence in its operation. That confidence is the product of all the good work, the conscientious effort and high ethics go into newspapers; it is undermined most seriously by the failures to live up to high ideals. As in most things, the failures always are known and proclaimed. It is right that the bad impressions they cause should be offset by such good impressions as newspapermen striving to equal the integrity, courage, tireless effort and tempered writing of a man whom newspapermen, themselves, admired. There could be no finer tribute to Raymond Clapper.

Food Competitors

FOOD plans for 1944 all call for less livestock production as a means of increasing the over-all supply of foodstuffs. The apparent contradiction is cleared up in a concise example used in a current Public Affairs Pamphlet on food.

It is pointed out that foodstuffs are lost in livestock production to the extent that animals are fed crops suitable for human food. Thus, an acre of land planted in corn would provide food for one person for 653 days. But if the corn is fed to hogs it provides enough meat for only 125 days.

"The reason," explains the pamphlet, "is much the same as the economy of use of gasoline for hauling people around in a car. Most of the gasoline goes for moving the car. The extra gasoline needed to haul one, two, or three people is small by comparison. Likewise with the hog, most of the corn goes for energy needed for its activity and for maintaining its body temperature during its life. Of the small part actually used to grow the pig, a quarter is used to grow parts we do not eat."

The conclusion reached by food experts is, therefore, that the most direct way to stretch the available food supply is to eliminate from competition as many as possible of the animal competitors, until there is again more than enough to feed the human populations whose needs must be placed first. The aim is not, of course, to eliminate meat from the national diet, but to restrain livestock production to a point where animals are not getting more than a fair share of the grains which are the foundation of human diets.

Today and Tomorrow

Interpretation and Clarification of Atlantic Charter Urged.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

IT IS indeed most necessary, as Mr. Churchill has just told the house of commons, that the Atlantic Charter should be clarified. Because there has been no way of obtaining an authoritative interpretation of concrete cases the charter is tending to become an instrument of disunion and of demoralization.

Yet it was intended to be the charter of a good and lasting peace. It can still be that, but only if the nations which signed it have the candor and the moral resolution to clarify it.

The Atlantic Charter is a declaration of eight principles made by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill Aug. 14, 1941. On Jan. 1, 1942, it was embodied in what is known as "a joint declaration by United Nations" and is an organic part of the grand alliance for the conduct of the war and for the making of peace. There is no doubt that the Atlantic Charter is a solemn agreement duly signed and sealed.

The eight general principles are not, however, always self-evident, and men, even the men who wrote them and the men who subscribed to them, may and do differ honestly as to how in certain cases they are to be interpreted and applied. This is no cause for dismay or embarrassment. Any code of conduct, the Ten Commandments, the Bill of Rights, Wilson's Fourteen Points, has to be interpreted continually if it is to be applied to all concrete cases as they arise.

Need Already Exists

There are already a fair number of such concrete cases where an interpretation of the Atlantic Charter is needed but none is to be had. Some of these cases have been posed by governments, others by responsible but private citizens.

Here are a few cases which call for an interpretation of the charter. Many more will arise.

1—Though the United States has as yet made no formal claim, there will be every disposition to claim annexation of the Pacific islands obtained by Japan under a mandate from the League of Nations. If we ask for these islands, are we violating the first principle of the charter which says that we "seek no aggrandizement, territorial or otherwise?" If we obtain title to these islands, shall we have violated also the second principle of the charter which says that we "desire to see no territorial changes that do not accord with the freely expressed wishes of the people concerned?"

Who are the people concerned? Are they the natives on the islands and how do they freely express their wishes?

2—It has frequently been said, and the Chinese generally believe, that in accord with the charter it is the obligation of Great Britain to surrender Hongkong. What principle of the charter can be invoked to alter a title validated long before the charter was adopted? Can the inhabitants of Hongkong be transferred from British to Chinese sovereignty without first ascertaining their "freely expressed wishes?"

3—Do the principles of the charter apply to our enemies? The charter is certainly not a compact with our enemies. But is it not a compact binding our own consciences? Most of us will believe that it is. But we believe also that prior to the unconditional surrender of their enemies, the United Nations have the right to amend the charter, formally and avowedly.

Application to Foes

If this is the correct view, then is it not advisable to make a formal declaration of amendment no later than in the armistice terms imposed at the time of unconditional surrender? Otherwise, it may be impossible without violating the charter and being put morally on the defensive by our enemies to create an adequately strong Poland or even to police Germany against her rearmament.

4—The question raised by the Soviet-Polish territorial dispute is, it seems to me, whether the charter is retroactive.

From the Russian point of view, the disputed territory has been legally a part of the Soviet Union since Nov. 3, 1939. If Poland can appeal to the charter against Russia, can Czechoslovakia appeal to the charter against Poland over Teschen?

Past Events

The Russian seizure of eastern Poland, the Polish seizure of Teschen both took place before the adoption or even the declaration of the Atlantic charter. Since Russia and Poland were both allowed to sign it without reservations, can the charter be invoked retroactively?

If the charter is retroactive for more than two years in the case of eastern Poland and more than three years in the case of Teschen, then how far back into history is the charter retroactive and what other territorial settlements can be reopened under it?

Even if the Atlantic Charter is held to be not retroactive and therefore inapplicable, Czechoslovakia's claim against Poland for the restoration of Teschen would still rest on the general principle that nothing done by Hitler, or with his aid, has any validity.

The four cases demonstrate how necessary it is to clarify the charter. On the one hand, its principles would seem to stop the United Nations from making any territorial changes of any kind after Jan. 1, 1942 (except, absurdly enough, in favor of our enemies because they are not bound by it), if it is interpreted retroactively it can be used to re-open all the territorial settlements made before Jan. 1, 1942.

This contradiction would free the future and unfreeze the whole past.

Yet the Charter is a solemn commitment which we cannot evade and must not wish to evade. We shall, therefore, have to clarify it, interpret it and probably amend it.

Election Hopes Recall '19-'20

Republican Trend Began Before National Poll.

IN the risky process of drawing conclusions from past experience in politics, observers are pointing to election results in Kentucky, New York, Pennsylvania and Colorado as indications of a Republican winning streak in 1944 because they resemble something that happened in 1920.

The Republican party in 1920 gained its greatest national victory since post-Civil war days, with 76 per cent of the electoral vote. It carried every state outside of the south, and also Oklahoma and Tennessee—and gained almost 70 per cent of the seats in the house of representatives. The results were presaged results in elections during the winter of 1919-20.

Kentucky had elected a Republican governor in 1919 by the largest majority ever given a Republican candidate for the office in the state.

In Massachusetts, Gov. Calvin Coolidge was reelected by a majority of 124,000 over the same Democratic opponent he had defeated in the previous election by 17,000. Newspaper accounts said large numbers of recently demobilized soldiers voted for Coolidge in resentment of strikes.

In New York, the Republicans increased their strength in the legislature. In Oklahoma, in a special election to the house of representatives, a Republican candidate won by a majority of 708 in a district normally Democratic by about 7,000. Maryland retained a Democratic governor, but with a reduced majority.

Another comparison which must be made between 1930 and 1944, however, is the feat the Republican victory in the election for president was scored at the expense of James M. Cox. Woodrow Wilson did not run for reelection, and Cox scarcely could expect to match the wartime chief executive in political appeal.

War on Tuberculosis

CARDIFF—Wales is launching an intensified campaign against lung diseases with a mobile X-ray unit installed in a bus.

The unit, said to be an advance on those about to be operated in England, uses ordinary miniature movie films and can take more than 500 photographs a day. The tiny pictures, each one inch square, are projected on to a screen, and the presence of active tuberculosis can be detected.

Selected groups of people will be examined first and later the mobile plant will "mass radiograph" workers in factories and children in schools, reaching the remotest country district.

THE INSIDE STORY

The Problems of Lasting Peace

By Herbert Hoover and Hugh Gibson

(This is the final installment of the newly-revised, up-to-the-minute version of their important book, The Problems of Lasting Peace, prepared especially for this series by Herbert Hoover, thirty-first President of the United States and Hugh Gibson, former minister to Poland and Ambassador to Belgium and Brazil.)

• • •

INSTALLMENT XVIII
Intellect, Emotion, Idealism, Realism and Peace

THE purpose of this war, the most terrible of three centuries, is to make a lasting peace. We must first win the war. But we will not win lasting peace unless we prepare for it. And we can prepare only by full and free public discussion and the cold surgery of analysis. We have a better chance at this time in the world's history than we have ever had to build for lasting peace.

But there is only one way to set about it. We must deliberately seek out the forces in motion, the difficulties, identify them and in the light of experience and reason consider what can be done to deal with them. But beyond experience, analysis and reason lies the powerful influence of emotions — good and evil.

America must proceed with a much more vigorous realism and a much deeper understanding than we had in 1919 after the last war.

Not only does realistic approach offer the best hope of achievement; it avoids a real danger. If we hold out to our people hopes that cannot be realized, there will be inevitable disillusionment. And disillusionment means isolationism.

One group of emotional idealists dealing with these problems consists of those with souls sensitive to the definite agonies of war who, disregarding all human experience, are in constant search for some magic, some mystic formula or some patent medicine to cure humanity's greatest scourge. They receive support in American daily life for we are conditioned by headlines, slogans, and movie captions which give glamor to panaceas and create belief in shortcuts.

If it were that easy, man would long ago have solved the most dreadful and baffling problem.

Among the minds engaged upon peace problems are the breed of flagellants who simplify world problems by the expedient of blaming everything on our own country. Because American genius has made our country strong and rich out of our own soil and hard work, we seem to have wronged somebody. No matter what goes wrong in the world we are to blame. This sort of mind not only presents America as a sorry spectacle in the eyes of the rest of the world, it weakens American influence in securing the fundamentals of peace.

THERE is still another group with a weakness for simplification. Everybody knows that the world has shrunk in terms of communications. Melbourne and Calcutta are closer to us in flying hours than parts of our own country by train. Radio has made the spread of ideas general and instantaneous. But it is a long flying jump from that to the assumption that we now have one world in terms of political and social or philosophical and religious outlook.

The fact is that the world remains pretty much as it has always been. We shall not achieve lasting peace by starting with the assumption that we have been transformed into one world by radio and airplanes, for if that were true we should have no problem in making lasting peace.

We must make up our minds to deal with governments and their social systems as they are and not as we should like them to be. On the United Nations' side in this war, we have a large variety of dictatorships and degrees of democracies. It is a dangerous fallacy to assume that more than a minor portion of the people in the world are democracies in our sense or that they ever will be in our lifetime.

Realism requires that we accept the fact that most other nations will struggle for the interests of their own peoples in the peace settlements. On this continent we have enjoyed an ease of living rarely found elsewhere; we have never had to fight to get the last farthing. In most of the world outside of the United States, even in peace times living for the masses of people is hard at best. They will be further impoverished by the war, and in consequence their national policies will of necessity drive them to secure every economic and other advantage they can obtain for their people. What may appear to us as selfish appears legitimate self-interest to them. We too shall have legitimate self-interest to be defended.

Among the realistic shapes that we must incorporate in our thinking is that of nationalism. It is the most powerful of all forces in international relations. It will profoundly affect the organization of lasting peace.

LASTING peace will not be built upon any surrender of the independence of nations. It must be built upon the collaboration of free peoples.

Realism requires that we accept an inevitable major development of great and concentrated centers of power from this war. Germany, France, Italy and Japan will be reduced to second or even third-class powers for a generation. The United States, Britain and Russia will become the three great centers of power in the world.

We also need realism as to the causes of war. The explosion of the modern world into total wars and tumult has occurred on three major occasions in a century and a half. Twice the world has tried to build "just" peace and to erect "institutions" to preserve it.

No realistic search for the truth can avoid the conclusion that wars result from no simple causes but are the result of the interplay of long-antecedent dynamic forces. There can be no peace unless these underlying destructive forces are first alloyed or stilled.

If we are realistic we must realize that wars involving 90 per cent of the people of the world in 50 nations cannot be ended by a general peace conference of thousands of conspiring diplomats ultimately signing a piece of paper. There must be a long period of transition from war to peace in which a hundred evils must be liquidated and a hundred constructive undertakings built.

The greatest of all realisms is experience. If we build the great highway to lasting peace, experience must be our guide. That highway must provide us the way through a wilderness of swamps and precipices where our Crusade for lasting peace can pass. And our way must be lighted by idealism.

And we may add that neither goodness nor evil will be abolished by this war. Ideas may shift but human nature will not be greatly changed. We need to be awake and not dreaming.

In the making of that peace will come a fleeting chance for leaders of mankind to bind the wounds, to restore faith, and to bring new hope to the world.

In the words of Washington to the Federeal Convention:

Let us raise a standard to which the wise and honest can repair—the event is in the hand of God.

Ring In the New!

25-Year-Olds Should Be Able To Run for President, 21 Should Be Figure for Senate.

By DAMON RUNYON

I NOT only think the voting age in this nation should commence at 18, but that the age of eligibility for the presidency of the United States, now 35, should be lowered. I think it should be not more than 25.

While we are about it, we might lower the age eligibility for United States senators, now 30 to 21.

You may say it is most improbable that any person of 25 would ever be elected president. I agree. The reputation acquired through achievement that is necessary to national attention as a presidential possibility might never befall one that youpg.

Yet I say that is no reason why there should be a youth barrier to the highest office in the land any more than there should be an old age barrier. I am sure there have been times in our history when we had young men who would have made better presidents than the middle-aged or even older men who were chosen.

I think the greatest fault with our political system is the tradition, carefully fostered by old men, that high political office cannot be administered by youth. The old men have established this tradition so strongly across the years that they have made youth itself believe it and have reduced the interest of youth in politics because youth feels it offers no reward.

MANY old men stay in office nowadays, especially in congress, by invoking respect for their years and long service rather than tribute to their ability. Youth in opposition to them is made a laughing matter, if not a serious charge. I do not have this particular period in mind, because it is wartime and we expect to find youth only in uniform, but the reign of old men in politics in this nation has endured many years.

It is the only nation in which, in normal times, youth is a barrier to high office. Of course in monarchial nations the king can be a mere boy as a matter of birthright, which is something we do not want, but those nations are not afraid to trust youth in places of the gravest responsibility.

This has been true for hundreds of years. Pitt was premier of England at 24 long centuries ago. We have never had a man as young in a corresponding position in the history of the United States. Our cabinet officers and our diplomats are nearly always men around 50. The youngest president we ever had was 42, and five others were under 50.

Theodore Roosevelt, who was the youngest president, was not elected to that office. He was vice president and he succeeded William McKinley when the latter was assassinated. Grant at 46 and Cleveland at 47 were the next youngest presidents. John Adams, 61, W. H. Harrison 68, Jackson 61 and Buchanan 65 were over 60. All others were in their 50's.

NOW I say that at 45 and certainly past 50, a man has become pretty much "set" in his ways and manner of thinking. He is likely to lack the mental resiliency of youth, the capacity for change, for yielding, which is essential in men in high places. That is why I think the door to the presidency should be opened to young men.

The change would have to be constitutional, of course. The Constitution of the United States, Par. 5, Art. 2, is most specific on this point. "Neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained the age of 35 years and been 14 years a resident within the United States."

But the Constitution makers could not foresee how much brighter the youth of the nation was to become and how much dumber the older men would be as years passed.

Lawn-Rolling

By Truman Twill

One of these days it will be time to roll lawns. That is to say, someone will roll a lawn, whereupon a lot of other darned fools will go and do likewise.

For years we have seen it happen just that way. Otherwise sane men have suddenly lapsed into galloping daffiness and pushed and pulled enormous implements back and forth over their lawns as though life, itself, hung in the balance—as indeed it did.

They have gone to great trouble and expense to borrow and rent these murderous implements for no better reason than that they happened to see someone else dragging one around somewhere. Lawn-rolling is one of the things about this country that probably shouldn't be talked about — a skeleton in the psychological closet.

To make the matter plain once and for all, this is an announcement of intent not to be played for a sucker this year. In wartime, especially there is no effort that can be conscientiously wasted dragging a couple hundred pounds of deadweight across a lot of dandelions that will grow just as well without any attention whatever.

Furthermore, the scars still show on the building across the street where the lawn roller landed last year when it took the bit in its teeth and went careening down the terrace, leaped two curbs and almost deprived the office of civilian defense of one of its most conscientous air raid wardens.

Nor can it be overlooked that experts on lawn care disagree among themselves about lawn-rolling in general, some saying it does no good and the others saying, with tongue in cheek, that as far as they can see it at least does no harm.

Besides, since there usually is really only one day each spring when conditions are ideal for lawn-rolling it would be inconsiderate of the other neighbors who want to borrow the same roller to tie it up when they are so much bigger and stronger and therefore could get more fun out of it.

And as to exercise, one of the more threadbare excuses for being pulled out of shape by a lawn roller, anyone stuck for the duration with an A card is going to get all the exercise he can use without inviting any extra trouble squeezing sod.

That is why there will be no lawn-rolling at the Twillery this year, at least not until someone else in the neighborhood opens the season. And when that happens, Bird Legs will be grabbing one of the things and groaning and grunting for dear life with all the rest of the flabby dopes who know better but can't resist the temptation to prove that if that lug next door can do it they can be darned fools, too.

OVERFLOW CROWD AT YOUTH NIGHT SERVICE

Gipsy Smith Gives Special Message for Young People.

An overflow crowd attended the Youth night service of the Gipsy Smith union evangelistic mission at Epworth Methodist church Friday night. The front of the auditorium was reserved for youth groups and individuals and to accommodate the balance of the audience Sunday school rooms surrounding the auditorium were opened.

Gipsy Smith gave a Special Youth night evangelistic message and Keith McMurray, president of the Christian Young People's union of Marion was introduced and offered prayer. A special vote of thanks for the work of groups and individuals who have taken part in arranging for and carrying out various phases of the services was given by the audience as the evangelist named those agencies or persons Music included an offertory number by the choir and solo by Mrs. Smith.

In preliminary remarks the evangelist declared, "Jesus is gloriously interested in young life He has always had a place for them in his program daily." As his Scripture reference he used the account of Christ blessing children, spoke of those who were young persons whom Christ by miracles raised from the dead and told the story of the "rich young ruler" who, though he had riches, culture and education and had "kept all the commandments from my youth up," yet, "hungry for eternal life, asked of the Lord, "What lack I?" He pointed out that none of us is all right, we will not be all right until we have 'entered within the veil' of God's forgiveness and salvation. It is not six or eight or a dozen sins that will keep you from salvation but the one overmastering habit of sin"

"It is the young person who turns more easily to God," he went on, "but when you continue to say 'no' and resist the Holy Spirit you can crush all the beauty out of your lives that you were born with He is lonesome for you, he wants you to love Him to be His companion, to walk in the light as he is in the light, to cleanse you from your sins. Accept Him and His way before your lives become damaged goods. You can't be vulgar and common if you are trying to do the will of God. If you keep the devil and Jesus out of your hearts it will spoil all of life for you." He gave illustrations to show the truth of the statement "It does not hurt or hinder anyone's career to be a Christian" He closed his message on the appeal to join with him in saying "I want more of Jesus in my heart and in my life."

but the new rules do not halt induction of men over 25 who are already in 1-A.

Hershey also notified his state directors of an interim plan for recommending deferments for indispensable young men, to be used until the new inter-agency committee gets the permanent machinery moving Under the interim plan, government "claimant" agencies, such as office of defense transportation (ODT) for transportation, war production board (WPB) for factories, and so on, will indorse requests for deferments, although state directors are not compelled to accept them

Looking toward the permanent procedure, the "claimant" agencies will determine the activities and plants which should have special consideration, and submit this information to the inter-agency committee by Monday, March 27.

The committee will then designate key activities and establish quotas for various activities and plants The "claimant" agencies will then recommend to state draft directors individuals for deferment.

The war manpower commission (WMC), which is setting up the new committee with Paul V. McNutt at its head, has emerged with prestige somewhat increased WMC and selective service insisted provision be made for recommending deferments not only in munitions plants but in programs such as transportation and coal mining. The Army, Navy and war production board (WPB) agreed to this yesterday.

But no agency pretends that a large number of men under 26—except for farm workers, protected by law—will get deferments.

Bowling

The Craftsman league, in its last few Thursday night outings, has been stealing the Men's All-Star league's stuff in tallying high single game and series scores. This week was no exception as nearly a score of 200-or-better games were rolled by the Craftsmen at the Marion Recreation, the best being R. Eicher's 256. He also had number one series count, 657. In the Universal Cooler loop at the Palace Recreation, Ferriman was high in the one-game column with 213 and Roberts had best series, 550. Huber mixed leaguers were led by Ray Lantz with a 201 game and 536 three-game total.

Other 200-or-more scores in the Craftsman league were Eicher 213, Haas 209 and 203, Jevas 204, Barber 225, Schmuker 213, Umbaugh 233, Wolbert 225, DeBolt 218, M Snyder 212, Buettin 207, Miller 200, Kilbury 234, Steinmetz 236, Hinklin 225, Schuler 212, Cass 216, and Ledley 202. Helen Dixon's 152 was tops for women bowlers in the Huber circuit. Ohn with 203 and Lorne with 201 were the only other Coolermen to roll double century games.

Following are standing in the three Thursday night leagues together with individual three-game series totals:

Her aggressive fighting spirit and superb combat efficiency are fitting tribute to the officers and men who so gallantly established her as a solid bulwark in defense of the American nation."

In War on Submarines

Instead of the promised shore duty, Gamble has been engaged in regular anti-submarine cruises. While coming from the west coast to his present station they were working in the Caribbean area later passing through the Panama Canal Zone where he spent two days with a brother, Pvt. Donald Gamble, stationed there with the coast artillery.

"We had quite a time and saw the town" A unique luck charm, a heavy silver ring with a jade Pharaoh's head was given to him by his brother, 'I haven't noticed it bringing me any special luck yet,' was the comment he made, "but I like the ring a lot."

When questioned about his preference, Gamble stated emphatically that he would prefer to be returned to dive bombers "There you are your own gunner and when you see a Jap coming, you know just what you can do and you go ahead and do it. In the torpedo planes, there are a three-man crew, pilot, gunner and radioman. Then you sit and just hope the gunner sees everything and scores a hit. It is just the same with most people riding in a car, you feel much better if you are driving."

His present gunner is a member of the Torpedo crew who made such a record in previous Pacific battles. He was also a member of the squadron Dick Shively of Marion was in. Jack also said his best pal at Quonset Point was radioman with Shively's crew when the latter was wounded.

Gamble reports back to Rhode Island Thursday and will again be stationed on active duty.

A graduate of Harding High school, he enlisted in 1941 and was in Pearl Harbor eight days after the Dec 7 attack.

Final Showdown With Hitler Now Drawing Nearer

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

Associated Press War Analyst

If you'll draw a circle around the European war zone and then check off on its circumference the outstanding currents events, you will find you have a diagram which emphasizes the big thing in the lives of all of us—that the final showdown with Hitler is near.

Prime Minister Churchill has told Yankee air-borne troops in England that they "soon" will have the opportunity of landing in Nazi occupied Europe. His voice registered emotion as he made the declaration.

Britain's famous General Montgomery of desert fame, referring to the forthcoming invasion in a London speech, said: "We are preparing to take part in the biggest tug of war the world has ever seen . . . The promised land is not so far off now."

American and British bombers have reached an unprecedented pitch of offensive fury in preparation for the invasion In one period of 36 hours this week they dumped over 7,000 tons of death and destruction on the enemy This intensification presages land action.

America is pouring troops and equipment into England.

Hitler Pushes Defense

Wherever you look you find Hitler feverishly preparing for this last battle. All his operations are purely defensive, even where they are counter-blows.

Stockholm reports that the Nazis are assembling shipping and landing barges in East Prussian ports This presumably is for protection of his Baltic flank, perhaps to occupy the Finnish Ahvenanmaa islands as defense against the Russian fleet, released when the siege of Leningrad was raised.

On the blazing Russian front there is an unusual circumstance which may be significant. Berlin has been announcing Red victories ahead of the Russians. Moscow frequently is slow in reporting her triumphs, but it's quite possible Hitler is giving advance notice as a cover while he deliberately pulls back his long, unwieldily line here and there — getting ready to retreat to a new front through Poland.

Down in the Balkans the fuehrer is rapidly extending operations for physical control not only of Hungary but of Rumania and Bulgaria That's all defensive The great Danubian gateway from Hungary into Austria, which is virtually part of his inner fortress, must be held at all costs. The Nazis' fierce resistance in Italy is to give added protection to the Hitlerian set-up in the Balkans

Hungary in Tight Spot

Secretary of State Hull yesterday called on Hungary to resist the German occupation. He said by this the Hungarians may hope to "regain the respect and friendship of free nations." Hungary is in a tight spot, but there's much fertile soil there for such seed.

FLOOR IGNITED

Coals falling from an overheated stove set fire to the floor yesterday with flames spreading to the walls at the home of Merrill Thomas on Prospect pike and Sawyer road Firemen and quad unit from Central station answered the call at 3:48 p m. Neighbors had the flames almost extinguished when the trucks arrived. Damage was estimated at $50.

Group of Selectees Goes to Ft. Thomas

Another group of selectees from Local Board 1 left Tuesday for induction at Fort Thomas, Ky. They were: Harold J. Holcomb, 941 Curve street, Leo D. Jackson, 202 Neil avenue, Edward Newton, Washington C. H., George W. Beechum, 152 Pennsylvania avenue, Dorsel H. Myers, Pt. Pleasant, O., and Robert A. Holcomb of near Marion. Robert E. Sampley, 346 Powhattan street, left March 13 for Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind. where he will be assigned to aviation cadet training

U. S. FOREIGN POLICY TAKES POLITICAL HUE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 25 — The administration's foreign policy—or lack of one as some critics put it—boiled up as a political issue today and there was evidence Republicans were applying a bellows to the fire under the kettle

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey declared in a radio talk from New York last night the American people know "far too little about our own foreign policies and practically nothing about our diplomatic commitments."

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), who heads the G.O.P. postwar advisory committee on foreign policy, told a reporter it was becoming increasingly apparent to him that the people of the country are "uneasy" about future American relations with the rest of the world

"Whether anybody likes it or not," Vandenberg said, "this is going to be a prime issue in the campaign."

Senator Reed (R-Kans) said he thought Secretary of State Hull's recent 17 point statement "didn't answer anything" He called it merely a "restatement of a desirable thing" without any concrete conclusions or commitments.

President Roosevelt, at a press conference yesterday, observed that one paragraph from a statement he had prepared on the refugee problem explained the foreign policy.

The words he quoted were:

"The United Nations are fighting to make a world in which tyranny and aggression can not exist; a world based upon freedom, equality and justice; a world in which all persons regardless of race, color or creed may live in peace, honor and dignity."

GERMAN AIR TROOPS BATTLE IN CASSINO

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NAPLES, March 25—Tough German parachutists, ordered by their commander Lt. Gen. Richard Heindrick to cling to Cassino at all costs and throw the allies out if possible, are holding New Zealand troops in fight confines in the southern part of the town.

The Germans have been able to get three more tanks into the lobby of the Continental hotel and apparently are reinforcing their troops through secret tunnels.

One tunnel was said to extend more than 100 yards from the Abbey atop monstery hill to the vicinity of Castle Hill which the Germans have been trying to take from New Zealand troops of the Fifth army.

Three years ago the Navy had 383 fighting ships; today it has well over 800.

BRICKER IN ALABAMA, ATTACKS NEW DEAL

By The Associated Press

BIRMINGHAM, Ala, March 25—Gov. Bricker of Ohio told a meeting of Alabama Republican leaders last night the New Deal had turned America into "a vast laboratory with 130,000,000 Americans being used for guinea pigs," and forecast a Republican victory this fall 'because the American people again want to be free"

The governor, seeking the Republican presidential nomination, attacked government "by directive," and asserted in a prepared speech that while some controls are needed in wartime, the present administration "has created a monstrosity of bureaucracy now running amok throughout the country."

"For 11 long years there has been a gradual but definite remoulding of the United States of America into one vast laboratory, with 130,000,000 Americans being used as guinea pigs. We have been forced to live by directive—which most times is nothing more nor less than a nice term for experiment," he said.

Class A and B Cage Squads To Settle Championship Today

COLUMBUS, O., March 25—This is the day for Ohio's 9AB world series of basketball.

Seven teams, seeking their first state high school championship, and one squad, striving to become a two-time winner, were pronounced ready, willing and able for a double-barreled series of games which will be climaxed shortly after 9 o'clock (central war time) tonight with the crowning of the 1944 class A and B titleholders.

The eight survivors, four in each class, are all that remain of nearly 1,200 teams which began tournament competition a month ago. The 1943 champions—Newark in class A and Yorkville in class B—are among those who could only sit on the sidelines and watch today as their successors are determined.

Newark was beaten last week in the regionals. Yorkville went out early, being eliminated in its county tournament.

The program in class A today called for Toledo Woodward (20 games won and 2 lost) to meet Canton Lehman (20 won and 4 lost) at 1 p. m. in Columbus auditorium. At 2:15, Martins Ferry (26 won and 0 lost) will tangle with Middletown (22 won and 1 lost).

Championship games in both divisions will begin at 8 p. m.

Tickets for the tournaments went on sale at 10 a. m. and, at least in class A, they weren't expected to last long despite an Ohio High School Athletic association rule limiting to four the number of ducats to be sold any one person.

Several radio stations scheduled broadcasts, however, so stay-at-homes could listen in on the championship battles.

All contenders except Worthington put in an appearance yesterday. After brief workouts, the boys were ordered by their coaches to "take it easy" and they were among the early-to-bed persons in Columbus last night.

Worthington waited until today to make the short trip into Columbus. The Cardinals arrived Thursday, however, for a brief whirl on the Ohio State gym floor, where the class B tourney will be held.

Martins Ferry is the only contender in either division that ever won a state title. The Ferrians copped the class A crown in 1941 and they're being burdened today with the role of slight favorite. Their undefeated record, plus an average of 65 points a game, caused them to be listed as the team to beat.

That bulging point average, however, was due to receive a severe test today since Middletown has allowed its 23 foes an average of only 21 points a game.

One of the other points of interest in the class A event was Canton Lehman's determination to show the fans there's nothing to that supposed thirteen jinx. This is the 13th time since 1923 that Canton has had a team in the final state tournament and not one of them ever won the title.

None of the class B finalists ever has won a state crown, but Akron Ellett will be out to take a state championship to its home city for the fifth time. North and West in class A and St. Mary's in class B have been previous Akron winners.

Physical Demonstration Set by Gra-Y Members

A Gray-Y club physical demonstration for the benefit of members' parents and friends will be staged in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium Tuesday night, starting at 7:30, Marion Mewhorter, Gray-Y leader, announced today. This will climax the fall and winter athletic program of the 12 Gray-Y organizations. Feature activities will be tumbling, group games, relay races, volleyball, and basketball.

Ohio State Plays Dartmouth Team in Garden Tonight

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 25—Unbeaten in college competition, Dartmouth's eastern league titleholder pits its 16-game winning streak against Ohio State, Big Ten championship final at Madison Square Garden tonight.

The Indians from Hanover, N. H., beaten only by the soldiers of Mitchell Field (NY) in 19 starts, won their way into the finals by overwhelming Catholic university, of Washington, D. C., 63-38, before 13,032 at the Garden last night.

Ohio State found Temple a more stubborn foe, but in the end subdued the Owls, 37-47, with a strong second half drive.

The betting fraternity regarded the game as a tossup, quoting odds of two points, take your pick.

Sparked by Jim Joyce and Dick Koechet, Temple at one time led by 21-18, but trailed by 26-23 at halftime and wilted in the second half as the Buckeyes rolled up a 44-31 edge. Don Grate, with 17 points, starred for the Big Ten titleholders.

Temple plays Catholic in a consolation encounter in a preliminary game tonight.

Utah university, meanwhile, reached the western finals last night with a 45-35 victory over Missouri at Kansas City.

So if the Utes manage to sidetrack Iowa State, Big Six co-champion, in the finals tonight, they'll play the eastern champions in Madison Square Garden March 28.

However, that may prove no easy task, as the Cyclones proved their class in a 41-39 victory over Pepperdine college of Los Angeles in the other western game.

HARDING BASKETBALL BANQUET TUESDAY

About 50 persons, including 25 cagers and their managers, are expected to attend the annual Harding High school basketball banquet in the school home economics room Tuesday night. Meals prepared and served by the girls of the home economics classes taught by Miss Pauline Stannard will start the banquet at 6:30.

L. E. Holt, city superintendent of schools, will act as toastmaster, a position he filled for the Harding football banquet last fall and the joint junior high school dinner Thursday night. Speakers will include Head Coach Dewey N. Bohyer, his assistant, Joe Petrich, and Harding Principal A. C. Cay.

Coach Bohyer will present letters to all eligible varsity and reserve players. Fifteen boys will receive varsity emblems and nine, reserve letters. Included in the varsity letter-winner list are fourteen cagers and Paul Barnhouse, senior manager. The school athletic board and the members of the city board of education also will be present.

Marion Man Has 2nd Skin Graft Operation

Paul Blue of 478 Cherry street underwent a second skin grafting operation in University hospital, Columbus, on Monday. The first was performed three weeks ago and it was thought this may be the last operation necessary.

Mr. Blue suffered severe burns on his leg last May while he was working at a service station in LaRue. The accident occurred when Mr. Blue started to light a cigaret after he had filled an automobile tank with gasoline, spilling some of the fluid on his clothing.

He was taken to the City hospital the day before he was to have graduated from high school. School officials presented him his diploma at the hospital after graduation ceremonies were held at the school.

TIGER ROOKIE KEEPS UP WITH STUDIES. Emery "Jim" Hresko (above), Detroit Tiger rookie who will not be graduated from Flint, Mich., High school until June, takes time out from spring baseball practice at Evansville, Ind., to brush up on economics and physics. He has a tutor at night.

Sport Stage Odds and Ends

Sports odds and ends from here and elsewhere:

An item of interest to Marion baseball fans of a generation or so ago: Wilbur Cooper, who played with the old Ohio State league team here about 1912 and later went to the Pittsburgh Pirates as a southpaw moundsman, celebrated his fifty-second birthday Feb. 24 at Pittsburgh where he is employed in the offices of the Dravo Construction Co. Mention of his birthday was made in a recent issue of the Sporting News.

If Harding High school officials don't soon come through with a plan whereby physical education for boys can be resumed, Harding's male pupils will be growing "soft" because of an absence of muscle-building workouts. There has been no gym for Harding boys since Vic Dorris left for the Army three weeks ago but Principal A. C. May and the school athletic department are working hard to find a solution to the problem which is now assuming serious proportions, especially where the seniors are concerned.

It's a recognized fact that pre-induction physical training is a great aid to any new draftee. If Harding High has to forego physical ed. for the balance of the year, the senior boys and others pressing the 18-year-old mark are likely to get out of shape. If this happens, they will have a tough time of it when it comes to going through the "killer" courses, given by the armed forces.

Unless there is a baseball or track team this spring, 1943-44 Harding High athletics are a thing of the past. There will be no spring football practice because of a rule outlawing it laid down by the state high school athletic association. Harding's junior and sophomore gridders and cagers, who will have to shoulder most of the burden on the school's sports squads next year, will have no way in which to keep in condition during the off-season without physical ed. This is vitally important to any athlete. Once he's out of condition, it takes a lot of good, hard working out to whip him back into prime shape. And Harding's football and basketball teams can't spend plenty of valuable practice time next year in doing this.

This Ted Jacobs of Ashland High school is a versatile lad. You know, of course, that he was the whiz of the 1943-44 N.C.O. basketball season and played first string end for the Ashland grid eleven last fall. Well, he's taken up another activity, wrestling, and apparently he's as proficient at that as he was on the court and gridiron. He won the championship in the 145-pound class in the annual Ashland wrestling tournament. He disposed of Jim Zimmerman, another footballer and cager, in his first match, then defeated two more rough and ready opponents to take the title.

* * *

A banquet for Ashland High's N.C.O. basketball champs will be held April 11 under the auspices of the Ashland Junior Chamber of Commerce. No less a personage than Harold Olsen, coach of Ohio State's Big Ten kings, will be the headline speaker.

Some of the experts may think different, but Marion county basketball fans are of the opinion that Worthington will win the State Class B high school crown or at least, come mighty close. The tourney started at Columbus this afternoon. The Worthington team, coached by Ray Heischman, won the District event at Westerville by downing Pleasant, Marion county team, 61 to 32. The Worthingtonmen had an abundance of class and an over-supply of height.

A local amateur baseball league is being formed by Paul Barnhouse and William Hime, Harding High seniors. They already have three teams lined up but would welcome several more. Anyone interested is asked to contact Hime, phone 3786 or Dick Grigsby, phone 7191.

17-Year-Old Ohio Boy Brings Cheer To Pirates Camp

By The Associated Press

MUNCIE, Ind., March 25—At an age when most rookies merit only a passing glance as major league material, 17-year-old Harry Amato of Springfield, O., is being accepted by the Pittsburgh Pirates with a large degree of pleasure.

Amato, appearing ready to become one of the youngest players in National league history, is regarded as an exceptional stylist by coaches in the Bucs' training camp and they are not changing his batting form lest they make him too nervous of some minor detail and thus interfere with his perfection.

The little 160 pound Italian is not a slugging, home run type of batter, but coaches are well satisfied in the smooth, effortless way he ties into pitches for sizzling line drives to any section of the field.

"I don't think I've seen a kid so young with such an excellent swing unless it was Mel Ott when he first reported to McGraw at the age of 16," exulted Manager Frankie Frisch.

Amato, who still has another year of high school before he graduates, last year played for the Springfield American Legion team which won runner-up honors in the National Legion tournament at Miles City, Mont.

Amato, a southpaw, was both a pitcher and an outfielder for the Legion club, but Frisch is more interested in him for garden duty. In 20 games through the State and National Legion tournaments Amato plugged away for a .485 batting average.

Gil Dodds Likes 2-Mile Run But Fails To Set New Record

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, March 25—Gil Dodd still prefers his courtship with the two-mile run even though he failed by a wide margin in his assault on Greg Rice's indoor record at the Knights of Columbus games last night.

"I still feel it's my natural distance," the Boston divinity student remarked wearily after he finished 14.3 seconds beyond the 8:51 mark which the former Notre Dame star set in the same meet last year.

"I had very little time to train for the extra distance and I just got tired, that's all," he explained.

Gil twice lowered the world's indoor mile record the past two week-ends but it was his first effort in two years over the longer route.

Although he obviously was disappointed with his showing, the plank pounding Parson finished a lap and a half ahead of Jim Rafferty of the New York A. C. and lapped the field with eight circuits to go.

The performance was Dodd's farewell appearance of the winter season. He will occupy his father's pulpit at Smithville, O., this Sunday.

Ed Conwell, national indoor dash champion from New York university, and Claude (Buddy) Young, University of Illinois freshman, each fractured the record for the seldom-run 45-yard dash. Young clipped one-tenth of a second off the mark of 5.2 seconds in a semi-final heat but finished second as Conwell repeated the feat in the final. Herb Thompson of Jersey City, N. J., the coast guard, set the old mark here last year.

Ed Dugger of Dayton won the 45-yard high hurdles in 5.7 seconds and was second in the 35-yard low hurdles while Dave Albritton, also of Dayton, tied for first in the high jump with Clyde Bates of Great Lakes at 6 ft. 4½ inches.

Les Eisenhart of Port Chester won the 1,000-yard run in 2:14.5 and Ohio State was third in the one-mile intercollegiate relay won by Illinois.

Annual "Bob Hope Show" Is Presented by Harding Hi-Y

The "Bob Hope Show," now an annual event on the Harding High school entertainment docket, highlighted a joint Hi-Y club assembly at the school Friday morning.

All the widely-known characters on the Bob Hope radio show, together with a few others "borrowed" from other radio programs were impersonated by members of the senior Hi-Y club. The Junior Hi-Y preceded the seniors with a comedy skit, which was a come-off on a mountain wedding. The sophomore chapter presented the serious side of Hi-Y life with devotions and songs which constituted the first third of the program.

The Bob Hope show was started by the Senior Hi-Y several years ago and went over with such a bang that it has continued as a yearly assembly at Harding. Dick Grimm and Jack Lawson, who also had major parts in the program, wrote the script and directed rehearsals for this years show.

The part of Bob Hope, the star of the show, was taken by Bill Williams, senior Hi-Y president and the announcer, Bill Goodwin, was portrayed by Dick Diollinger. Others in the show and their roles were. Dewey Reynolds, (who isn't skinny) "Skinny Ennis", Jack Lawson, "Wallace Whimple"; John McKenney, "Jerry Colonna"; Dick Moore, who interrupted the show from time to time with short jokes, Bob Boyd, Glen Wren, and Carl Willmeth, singing advertisement trio; Tom McGinnis, "Vera Vague"; and Marshall Browne, Dick Grigsby, Ed Breithaupt, Don Wahlgren, Dick Grimm Dick Williams, and August Bender.

Grimm, Harding's own Frank Sinatra, gave out with three popular songs and a short advertising "quickie" as his part of the program.

President of the Junior Hi-Y club is Jim Burgess, who acted as "narrator" for his club's part of the assembly. Bruce Nystrom was the mountain bride and the suitors were Bill Luse and Dick Davis. Jack Robbins is president of the Sophomore Hi-Y. His club members gave brief talks on the pledge, purpose and objectives of Hi-Y.

Four Young Marion Women Start Own Free Magazine for Servicemen Overseas

The first issue of "Copy," a small mimeographed magazine of general interest to men in the service, was published today, by a group of Marion women. Editor of the magazine is Miss Eleanor Cowan of 331 South State street. Articles deal mainly with themes of general interest gleaned from other publications and are intended to entertain and amuse rather than present local news.

Since the publication which will appear every other Friday, is intended mainly for overseas consumption, the editors have made an effort to obtain articles that will interest any service men into whose hands the publication might fall.

Co-Editors

Co-editors are Miss Esther Eggleston of 176 Bain avenue, Mrs. Darrel Vermillion of 507 Mound street and Mrs. Arthur Amick of 200½ East Center street. Miss Eggleston is the sister of Capt Donald Eggleston, who is stationed in Dallas, Tex., where he is test pilot and contracting officer for the North American Aviation factory. Mrs. Amick's husband was last stationed at Fort George Meade, Md. Mrs Vermillion's husband, Darrel Vermillion, machinist's mate first class, is stationed in Trinidad, British West Indies.

Miss Cowan announced a sports column written by Harley West of Marion will appear in the next issue.

Mimeograph work on 'Copy" is being contributed by the Marion Business college.

Sent Free

The magazine is sent free to men in the service and anyone wishing to add a name to the mailing list should send the name and address to "Copy" at 331 South State street. Cost of the publication is shared by the editors and other persons interested in seeing that the magazine reaches men in the service.

Although the mailing list of the first issue was almost evenly divided between men in this country and men stationed overseas the editors hope to expand their overseas list. Men to whom "Copy" is sent need not have been residents of Marion before entering service, it was stated.

Miss Durbin, cast as an Indiana girl who longs for a musical career, journeys to New York where she believes her brother to be in a position to help her gain fame. When she arrives, she finds to her chagrin that her brother is no more than a butler to a noted composer. Not daunted, Diana takes a job as maid in the musical household, hoping to be heard singing while she works.

When she receives invitations to the policeman's ball from all the butlers in the house, she is a bit perplexed. Accepting one of the invitations, Deanna finds that the composer is also attending the function. She makes the most of her opportunity, is heard by the composer and chosen for the lead in his recently completed operetta.

Oriental settings are in Bagdad in more brilliant days. Miss Montez appears as a princess whose father kills the caliph of Bagdad and brings about the invasion of the fabulous city by Mongol tribesmen.

Hall is cast as the son of the caliph, who becomes the leader of a band of happy-go-lucky robbers. The band joins with the princess' slave, played by Turhan Bey, and ousts the invaders from Bagdad.

The tale of Ali Babi and the mountain of jewels is retold, Hollywood style, in one sequence of the fantasy.

ANNE BAXTER AND EDWARD RYAN appear in "The Fighting Sullivans," now playing through Thursday at the Ohio theater.

Steelworkers Attack Pay Boost Opposition

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 25—The CIO United Steelworkers, arguing for a 17-cent hourly wage increase before a war labor board panel, denied today such an increase would have any inflationary impact.

David J. McDonald, union secretary, said the demand had been attacked on "two fallacious grounds;" first, that increases in steel prices would be necessary, and second, that "the wage increase is not in the national interest because it is inflationary."

McDonald said the union's brief "demonstrated beyond doubt that the steel companies are in such an excellent profit position that they can pay the wage increase without raising the price of steel products.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

THE QUEER intuition which so often has served me royally in difficult situations sounded the warning tinkle of a bell deep within me at Hugh's question.

Those postal cards, which I had received at intervals from Hugh for many years but which had stopped abruptly a year ago, always have given me a puzzling uplift in spirit. It is that which comes to a woman when she receives a romantic reminder of devotion from a man who has loved her long and hopelessly.

Lavender

Even though she is happily married, there is something—not exactly nostalgic—but still like a whiff of lavender in such a reminder. Dickens immortalized that motif in Sydney Carton, and the name stands for something which almost every woman, at some moment in her lifetime, secretly has wished would happen to her, even though she would die rather than own up to such a feeling.

I could remember so well the moment when Hugh first had told me of those cards. It was at a moment when he was about to depart from the country, some time after a crisis when I had been able to make him realize that my love for my husband, even though Dicky appeared to be falling me, was too strong for me ever to give any consideration to the deep and loyal love he had proffered me.

He had said in effect:

"I want you to know always where I am, and that, if you ever need me, all you will have to do will be to send the words 'I need you,' to the last address you have of me. I am not going to write you letters. Even the sending and receipt of them might be misunderstood. But wherever I am in the world, I shall send you a postal card, registered mail, and whenever I move on, I shall send you another.

No Messages

"There won't be anything on those cards except the simple greeting that any acquaintance could send another, but my address will be most meticulously written in indelible ink, so that you always will know where I am.

"I never shall expect any reply to those cards," he finished, "unless you need me desperately. Then I shall leave everything, and come to you as fast as possible. Will you promise to send for me if you ever need a strong arm and a stout heart? Will you promise?"

I had promised, and had bidden him good-bye and god-speed with an ache in my heart for what I had seen in his eyes as he gave me a last look before leaving. And now I brought myself up with a round turn, though my memories had flashed in such kaleidoscopic fashion that my pause after his question was not noticeable—or so I hoped.

"Yes, I received your cards up to a year ago," I said, trying to keep my voice matter-of-fact. "Then they stopped, much to my disappointment, for I always enjoyed them so much."

Wants Truth

"You're talking exactly as if they'd been the usual tourist cards with 'Wish you were here,' on them," he said. "Tell me the truth right now. Did they mean nothing to you? Did their ceasing to come mean nothing?"

The pain, and more—a certain justified reproach in his eyes—made me a bit ashamed of myself. After all, he had accepted my decision on that long past day with dignity and without a word of reproach. His only thought had been to make sure that I always would be able to call upon him if I needed him. And I was being elaborately casual!

I faced him resolutely and honestly.

"Yes, Hugh, they did mean a great deal to me," I said. "They always gave me a feeling of safety—of being guarded — and—I have missed them more than I can tell you."

Something flashed into his eyes that almost made me drop my own. But again that little warning bell rang within me. I must keep that look out of Hugh's eyes. It had no part in my life now, and above everything, I must show no sign of confusion.

Not the Time

"I am—glad to hear that," he said. "Sometime I will be able to tell you why I have been unable to send you those cards for a year, but just now is not the time. Suppose you do as I asked you a few minutes ago,—bring me up to date on what has happened since I last saw you."

But I saw my way clearly now. The look in Hugh's eyes a minute ago had been illuminating. He had not forgotten, and his coming back after so long an absence had rekindled something which I knew I must discourage, and quench completely, if possible. And going into a long confidential chat with him was not exactly indicated.

A knock on the door gave me the opportunity I needed. When I opened the door, Katie, obviously excited, broke into voluble speech.

"Oh, Missis Graham, plees coom downstairs qveeck!" she cried.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Exercise

THE VOICE OF the turtle must be pretty loud and continuous in the land now even as far as the shores of Lake Michigan. A more reliable sign is the way the golfer looks at the weather reports. His clubs are bright and shiny and all he needs is to have the ground water get down so the links will dry.

So above all lesser discussions, drowning out the bores of winter, such as the jokes about Bing Crosby's horses and Dorothy Lamour's sarong and Jimmy Durante's nose and Jack Benny's wig, Johnny's sickly sweet and fading chant—the gasoline shortage has kept me close to the radio and my friends find me somewhat embittered this spring—there arises now the eternal debate about what is the best kind of exercise. Are the bog muscle boys really healthiest? Should we supplement the labors of the links and court the surf and the canoe, with dumbbells in the bedroom, setting-up exercises, pulleys, horizontal bars?

And that, as my old friend, Dr. Adrian Gibbs said, when they asked him whether in the making of a mint julep the mint should be gently bruised in the bottom of the glass or left standing—that is a dangerously delicate question.

Speaking from the standpoint of the evolution of the human race and who would open a question of this kind, indeed of any kind without speaking of that, to the brute of the Neolithic exercise was a grim necessity. Not for him the sissy pastime of trying to swat a little white ball as far as possible with totally inadequate instruments. He learned the value of exercise the hard way — from the sabre-toothed tiger and the cave bear.

Man's development was brought about by the so-called "Racial" exercises — running, walking, climbing, hoeing, spading, swimming and combat for self defence. And these are still the best exercises for the healthy development of the body. The muscular development that comes from the systematic use of every muscle in the body is not healthy. It may be a positive detriment to carry around those bulky muscles for which one has no use. The longevity of professional strong men is proverbially short.

Where are the Indian clubs of yesteryear? Aye, where are they? But let them go. The only thing they fitted you to do was to swing Indian clubs. Sandow looked wonderful under the lights, but a wiry little steel worker could throw him for a loop.

Exercise is healthy and makes you feel better all right, but don't overdo it. Especially as time drags on. Golf is well designed in this respect. I belong to a perfect golf club for a person of my years. Half the holes are on one side of the road, and in front of the club house one can arrange his play to cover either nine, six or three holes and arrive back at the club house. Long ago with my friends, I crossed the road. Now we stay on this side. And most days the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth holes are enough. So fades the career of one of the great golfers of all time.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

W.A.B.:—What effect will vinegar, tomatoes, buttermilk and saccharin have on a stomach that is troubled with acidity?

Answer:—The rule about foods for those with acid indigestion is to avoid the 3 S's—"sweet, sour and spiced" foods. All of the foods you list are in that class. Experience over and over shows that vinegar and tomatoes stir up the stomach acidity. Buttermilk, while sour, sometimes is tolerated. Saccharin, while technically sweet is taken in such quantities that it does not do as much harm as, for instance candy.
